CONTENTS

The Endoscopic Approach to the Diagnosis of Upper Gastrointestinal Bleeding 63
Bernard M. Schuman, M.D., Roberto F. Gluckmann, M.D., Klaus Anselm, M.D., and Robert J. Priest, M.D.
Fiberoptics as an early diagnostic approach.

Clinical Use of the Halo: Case Reports Using Skeletal Traction Apparatus 67
Louis Z. Shifrin, M.D.
Practical application at many sites other than fixation of facial fractures.

Genetic Counseling for Hemoglobinopathies: A Model for Large Scale Application 77
Charles E. Jackson, M.D., Esly S. Caldwell, M.D., and Ellis J. Van Slyck, M.D.
A signpost for comprehensive surveys of black populations for all the common hemoglobin abnormalities at moderate expense.

Postmenopausal Osteoporosis: The Evolution of our Concepts of its Cause 83
Harold M. Frost, M.D.
Attention directed to the underlying bone marrow disorder and its interactions with endosteal bone.

C-Reactive Protein: Potential Significance of Quantitation in Patients with Chronic Diseases 91
Hajime Hayashi, Ph.D. and Gerald A. LoGrippo, M.D.
Correlation with degree of inflammation.

Epidermoid Carcinoma Arising in an Epidermal Inclusion Cyst 97
Dr. Talmadge V. Hays and Dr. Joseph Ponka
To be differentiated from calcifying epithelioma, a common condition.

The Psychiatric Walk-In Clinic Services. An Interim Report 103
Boyd K. Bresnahan, M.D. and Larry Schilhaneck, M.S.W.
A time-saver in emergencies, elimination of appointment “no-shows” and reduction in long waiting lists.

Publications of the Staff—Titles and Selected Abstracts 108